Privacy Statement – Services for Clients
Effective April 23, 2018
Quick Summary

What personal information we collect and why

We collect personal information that our client instructs us to collect. For more information about what information is being collected and why, please speak with the organization that requested the services.

Who we share your personal information with and why

We share your personal information with the client that requested it, any third party that we need to contact to collect or validate your personal information, and service providers that we use to complete services and manage our infrastructure.

What we don’t do with your personal information

We don’t sell or disclose your personal information to governments, marketing or advertising services, other clients, or anyone else except as outlined in this statement or required by law.

Privacy Mission Statement

Sterling Talent Solutions is committed to the protection of individual privacy rights. We hold ourselves to the highest legal and ethical standard for compliance and strive to be a privacy champion in the human resources technology industry. We value the trust our clients, colleagues and suppliers place in us, and we work to maintain that trust by building privacy protection into everything we do.

Personal Information Disclosure: United States or Overseas

Personal information collected from people in the United States may be transferred outside of the United States as follows:

- To Sterling’s affiliate operations centers in the Philippines and India for service fulfillment.

- To third parties from which personal information must be collected or verified to fulfill services requested by our client (for example, if our client asks for a criminal record check in Brazil, personal information will be transferred to the organization in Brazil that provides police certificates).

- To contractors that provide country- or region-specific services, where our client has requested those services (for example, if our client asks for an education verification in Japan, personal information may be transferred to a company in Asia with expertise in verifying Japanese education history in the Japanese language).

For more information about cross-border transfers of personal information, scroll down to Section 9 below, “Do we transfer personal information between countries?”

1 Scope of application

This statement applies to the collection and processing of personal information, which means information about an identifiable individual (you) that Sterling Talent Solutions (Sterling, we or us) collects in the course of providing services to our clients. This statement does not apply to personal information we collect about our clients or users of our marketing web sites. For information about privacy in these contexts, click here. It also does not apply to the collection and processing of personal information about our employees or contractors. For information about privacy in the context of doing work for Sterling, click here.

2 Why do we collect personal information and what types of personal information do we collect?

We collect personal information in the course of several business activities. Select and expand the section for the activity that applies to you to understand that activity, the personal information we collect for it, how we use that personal information, and our legal basis for doing so.

To provide background check, onboarding and other services to our clients.

Our primary function is as a service provider to our clients. We conduct the following types of services:

- Background screening before and during employment, volunteer or contractual relationships;
- Collection, validation and storage of onboarding and other human resources documents;
- Due diligence research for investments, acquisitions, directorships and other business relationships.

When we provide services to clients, our client is generally responsible for the following aspects of collection and processing of personal information:

- determining which personal information we collect and how we use it;
- establishing a legitimate basis to collect and process personal information and ensuring that the collection and processing complies with applicable law;
- if appropriate, ensuring that you are notified of, or provide consent for, the collection and processing of your personal information in accordance with applicable law;
- complying with any legal obligations it may have as the entity that controls or owns the personal information.

And we are generally responsible for the following aspects of collection and processing of personal information:

- carrying out the services requested by our client in accordance with its instructions;
- storing and protecting personal information in our custody according to our client’s instructions;
- complying with any legal obligations we may have as a data processor, custodian, service provider or similar under applicable law.
When we provide services to a client, collection of your personal information is done in accordance with our client’s instructions. For more information, please contact the client.

Review the list below to see the types of personal information we collect from or on behalf of our clients, along with an explanation for why we collect them and where we get them.

They will not be collected where prohibited by law, and where permitted, they will only be collected and used in accordance with applicable law.

To track usage and security of our secure platforms

Our sites use cookies. For more information on cookies, please see the section entitled ‘How do we use cookies?’
Information about your activity on our secure platforms, including SterlingONE, Screening Direct, Workforce Direct, BackCheck, eConsent, Verified Volunteers, myBackCheck.com and others, is collected to ensure the integrity and security of our systems and data in our custody, and is used to audit system access and investigate suspicious activity.

Collection of personal information for security purposes is done based on our legitimate interest and legal obligation to ensure personal information in our custody is protected.

The following types of information, some of which may be personal information, are logged when you access our secure platforms:

- IP address;
- location;
- login credentials for our systems;
- dates, times, and length of session;
- access to and modification of data;
- browser type and version.

Reuse of personal information for new purposes

We will not reuse personal information for a new purpose other than the original one(s) for which it was collected, unless one or more of the following is true:

- the new use is compatible with the original one, meaning you should reasonably expect it;
- we have notified you of the new use and given you an opportunity to object to it; or
- the new use is otherwise permitted or required by law.

3 How do we use cookies?

Cookies are pieces of information shared between your web browser and a website. Cookies enable the website to collect information about your activities and provide you with a faster and easier experience for the user. When you access our site, we ask for your consent to use cookies.

There are different kinds of cookies with different functions:

- Session cookies: these are only stored on your computer during your web session. They are automatically deleted when the browser is closed. They usually store an anonymous session ID allowing you to browse a website without having to log in to each page. They do not collect any information from your computer.

- Persistent cookies: a persistent cookie is one stored as a file on your computer, and it remains there when you close your web browser. The cookie can be read by the website that created it when you visit that website again.
First-party cookies: the function of this type of cookie is to retain your preferences for a particular website for the entity that owns that website. They are stored and sent between Sterling’s servers and your computer’s hard drive. They are not used for anything other than for personalization as set by you. These cookies may be either Session or Persistent cookies.

Third-party cookies: the function of this type of cookie is to retain your interaction with a particular website for an entity that does not own that website. They are stored and sent between the Third-party’s server and your computer’s hard drive. These cookies are usually Persistent cookies.

Our service platforms, which we use to collect information from you and our clients, do not use third-party cookies. They may use first-party session cookies to track your use of the sites and first-party persistent cookies to remember any preferences you select, such as your location.

The major browsers have attempted to implement the draft “Do Not Track” (“DNT”) standard of the World Wide Web Consortium (“W3C”) in their latest releases. As this standard has not been finalized, our sites are not compatible with DNT and so do not recognize DNT settings.

We use cookies for the following purposes:

Where strictly necessary

These cookies are essential in order to enable you to move around the site and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the site. Without these cookies, services such as viewing certain areas of the site or using web forms cannot be provided. These cookies do not gather information about you that could be used for marketing or remembering where you have been on the internet.

Performance

These cookies collect information about how visitors use a site, for instance which pages visitors go to and if they get error messages from web pages. These cookies do not collect information that identifies a person, as all information these cookies collect is anonymous and is used to improve how our site works.

Functionality

These cookies allow our site to remember choices you make (such as your language or the region you are in) and provide enhanced features. These cookies can also be used to remember changes you have made to text size, font and other parts of web pages that you can customize. They may also be used to provide services you have requested such as viewing or commenting on content on the site. The information these cookies collect is usually anonymized.

Please consult your web browser’s ‘Help’ documentation or visit www.aboutcookies.org for more information about how to turn cookies on and off for your browser.
4 When, why and how do we communicate personal information outside of Sterling?

To complete services

The services we provide frequently require us to find or validate personal information with third party sources. To do so, we need to provide your personal information to allow the third party to find records about you. We generally provide the information that is required by the third party in the format and through the transmission method of the third party's choosing. This may involve transmitting information through a website, phone call, email, fax, letter or in person.

When we provide services to a client, communication of your personal information is done in accordance with our client’s instructions. For more information, please contact the client.

To provide results to our client

When we provide services to a client, we transmit personal information back to that client. This is done through our secure web platforms and occasionally by phone, email, fax or mail.

To engage service providers

While most of our work is done by our employees or authorized personnel who access personal information directly from our systems and whose activities are under our direct control, we use third-party service providers for certain specialized tasks. These tasks include storage of data, information technology support, and some services we perform for our clients.

It would be impractical to list all service providers here, so we have listed types of service providers instead of individuals or organizations. To understand which service providers may receive your personal information, contact us.

When we provide services to a client, use of service providers is done in accordance with our client’s instructions. For more information, please contact the client.

Expand the list below to see which types of service providers we use, the purposes for which we use them and the types of personal information we may transfer to them.

In exceptional circumstances

We may be asked to communicate personal information to law enforcement agencies, national security agencies, courts or other public bodies in any jurisdiction where we are subject to the law, regardless of where personal information is stored. If we receive a production order, warrant, subpoena or other enforceable demand, we will comply as required by law. If we receive a request to provide information voluntarily, we will consider your interests, our business interests, the interests of our clients, public safety implications and our legal obligations prior to deciding whether to communicate personal information. In any case where the information in question was collected from or on behalf of a client, we will consult with the client before proceeding unless prohibited by law.

We may proactively communicate personal information to law enforcement or other third parties if necessary to investigate or report a violation of the law or a contractual agreement, or if otherwise appropriate and permitted by law.

5 How do we ensure your personal information is accurate?

Much of the personal information we collect comes directly from you, in which case you are in control of its accuracy. Our processes for collecting and transcribing personal information are automated to the greatest extent possible and are subject to rigorous quality controls. Information that is found to be inaccurate, either through our own audits or following your request for correction, is updated.
6  Do we engage in automated decision-making or profiling using personal information?

We do not make decisions about you, automated or otherwise, and do not attempt to analyze or predict your behavior, preferences, interests, health or other personal characteristics. However, we may carry out automated processing on our client’s instructions. For more information about automated processing of personal information on behalf of a client, please contact the client.

7  Do we conduct research using personal information?

No. We maintain historical statistical data in anonymized, aggregate format for research and analysis.

8  How long do we keep personal information?

We keep personal information that was collected from or on behalf of a client for as long as the client asks us to keep it, or as long as we need to keep it to comply with our legal obligations. To understand how long we will store your personal information, please contact us or the client on whose behalf we collected it. We do not delete personal information unless instructed to do so by our client.

9  Do we transfer personal information between countries?

Yes. We store personal information in Canada (for data on our BackCheck, eConsent, SterlingONE Canada and myBackCheck.com platforms) and in the United States (for data on all other platforms, including third-party providers). Our employees and contractors access personal information through virtual desktop interfaces in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, India and the Philippines. We also use service providers in various other countries, usually to collect or translate information from that service provider’s country or region that we require to provide services.

If your personal information is subject to European Union (EU) or Swiss law, it may be transferred outside of the EU or Switzerland based on one or more of the following legal mechanisms:

- Relevant authorities have issued a decision that personal information will benefit from an adequate level of protection in the country to which it is transferred. This is the case for Canada and, under the EU-U.S. and Swiss-U.S. Privacy Shield Framework, Sterling Talent Solutions entities in the United States. This is not the case for India or the Philippines.

- We have signed contractual clauses with our client that are deemed by the relevant authority to ensure adequate protection of personal information.

- You have provided your consent for us to transfer personal information outside of the EU or Switzerland to allow us to carry out services for you or on behalf of a client.

In all cases, we ensure that appropriate safeguards are in place to ensure the protection of your personal information. For more information about these safeguards, please contact us.
10 Do we participate in the EU-U.S. and Swiss-U.S. Privacy Shield Framework?

Yes. Sterling Infosystems Inc. and its U.S. affiliates and subsidiaries operating under the brand name of Sterling Talent Solutions (listed below under “Privacy Shield Covered Entities”) comply with the EU-U.S. Privacy Shield Framework and the Swiss-U.S. Privacy Shield Framework as set forth by the U.S. Department of Commerce regarding the collection, use and retention of personal information transferred from the EU and Switzerland to the United States. Sterling has certified to the Department of Commerce that it adheres to the Privacy Shield Principles. Sterling remains responsible for personal information that is communicated to third parties for processing as described in the section entitled "When, why and how do we communicate personal information outside of Sterling?" If there is any conflict between the terms in this statement and the Privacy Shield Principles, the Privacy Shield Principles will prevail. To learn more about the Privacy Shield program and to view our certification, please visit https://www.privacyshield.gov. The Federal Trade Commission has jurisdiction over Sterling’s compliance with Privacy Shield.

11 How do we protect personal information?

We have advanced security measures in place to secure and protect your personal information, such as internal and external firewalls, monitoring and alert systems to prevent and detect intrusion attempts, and 128-bit encryption of data both in transit and at rest. Our servers are located within a securely managed infrastructure, and undergo multiple reviews by independent auditors. Our employees access data through secure virtual desktop interfaces, and our online interfaces are encrypted, password protected and monitored.

We employ equally rigorous physical security policies to prevent physical access to our premises. Our servers and offices, including personal information in hard copy form, are kept in access-controlled and monitored environments.

All of our employees have been carefully screened and undergone thorough security and privacy training. We restrict access to your personal information to individuals who need it to perform their work functions. Our operations, customer service, account management, finance, quality, vendor management and compliance teams may have regular access to your information and employees in other departments may access it occasionally as required to provide services, communicate with you and fulfill our legal obligations.

We also enter into contractual agreements with service providers with which we may need to share your personal information, which require them to protect your personal information to the same level as we do, and allow us to audit their compliance with those obligations.

12 How can you choose how and whether we collect and use your personal information?

Providing your information to us is voluntary. The list below explains how to make choices about the collection and use of your personal information for various purposes, and the consequences of your choice not to provide your personal information.

Whenever our legitimate basis for collecting and using personal information is your consent, you can withdraw or modify your consent for future collection or use of your personal information at any time, and we will explain the consequences of doing so.

If we use your personal information for sales or marketing purposes, you can ask us to stop at any time and we will do so.

13 How can you access or correct your personal information, request that it be deleted, or ask for it to be transferred to another organization?

At any time, you can request access to your personal information, request that any inaccuracies be corrected, and request that comments or explanations be added to records about you.

You can also ask about:

- whether and why we have your personal information;
- how we got your personal information;
- what we have done with your personal information;
- to whom we have communicated your personal information;
- where your personal information has been stored, processed or transferred;
- how long we will retain your personal information, or how that retention period will be determined; and
- the safeguards in place to protect your information when it is transferred to third parties or third countries.

Finally, you can ask us not to collect or use your personal information for certain purposes, you can ask us to delete your personal information, or you can ask us to provide your personal information to a third party.

We may refer any of these requests to our client if your personal information was collected on behalf of that client.

Depending on which laws apply to your personal information, we or our client may only be able to do some of these things for you. If you request one of these things and we refuse to do it, we will explain your legal rights, the reason for our refusal and any recourse you may have.

14 How can you make a complaint about how we have handled your personal information or responded to a request to exercise your rights?

We commit to investigating and resolving complaints about our collection or use of your personal information. To make a complaint, contact us.

For residents of the European Economic Area and Switzerland

If you are in Europe, you should contact our UK office to resolve your complaint, regardless of which of our companies the complaint is about. If you are not satisfied with our resolution of your complaint, you may complain to the Information Commissioner’s Office. We commit to cooperating with the panel established by the EU data protection authorities (DPAs) or the Swiss Federal Data Protection and Information
Commissioner (FDPIC) and comply with the advice given by the panel or the FDPIC with regard to personal information transferred from the EU or Switzerland. For the purposes of the Privacy Shield, we are subject to the investigatory and enforcement powers of the Federal Trade Commission. In some conditions, you may be able to invoke binding arbitration to resolve your complaint where your personal information has been transferred to and processed in the United States.

For United States residents

If you are not satisfied with our resolution of your complaint, you can make a privacy complaint to the Federal Trade Commission or you can make a consumer reporting complaint to the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau.
